

Table of contents (19 chapters)

- Is Putting Cancer in Banks a Patrimony To Be Developed?
Bioy, Xavier Pages 3-7
- Biological Samples and Their Sampling Degrees
Coussens-Barre, Thibaut Pages 9-17
- Personal Data Protection in Tumor Banks
Debaets, Emilie Pages 19-29
- The Policies of Tumor Biobankers: Main Strategies and an Example of the Policies Adopted by the Nice Hospital Biobank, France
Hofman, Paul Pages 31-39
- The Concept of Biological Samples Collection
Brouchet, Anne (et al.) Pages 41-50
- Does Tumor Bank Regulation Promote the Valorization of Tumor Collections?
Pigeon, Anna Pages 51-62
- Economic Modeling and Valorization of Biobanks
Bobtcheff, Catherine (et al.) Pages 63-72
- Socializing Tumors: From the Conservation of Tumors in Banks to Their Ontological Variations
Milanovic, Fabien Pages 73-84
- The Valorization of Tumor Collections: Reconciling the Interests of the Different Actors
Rial-Sebbag, Emmanuelle Pages 87-97
- The Development of Tumor Collections: The Interest of the European Union
Grove-Valdeyron, Nathalie Pages 99-110
- Academic Valorization of Biobanks
Duguet, Anne-Marie (et al.) Pages 113-125

- Commercialization Through the Use of Private Law Contracts
Izac, Laurent Pages 127-140
- The Governance Framework of North American Biobanks: A Rapidly Evolving Policy Patchwork
Joly, Yann (et al.) Pages 141-164
- Biobank Expertise and the Research Unit-Biobank Relationship
Bobtcheff, Catherine (et al.) Pages 165-174
- Extra-Patrimoniality for the Patient
Paricard, Sophie Pages 175-181
- The Moment of Patrimonialization
Catto, Marie-Xavière Pages 183-200
- The Patrimonial Specificities of Public Persons
Schmaltz, Benoît (et al.) Pages 201-210
- Biological Sample Collection in the Era of Genomic Medicine: A New Example of a Public Commons?
Noiville, Christine (et al.) Pages 211-221